Dear Parents and Carers,

Southwark Conversation

We are consulting with Southwark's residents about the changes in the borough. The council wants this change to work for everyone – to help families enjoy life, be healthy and thrive in Southwark.

With or without the council, the next few years will see new developments and buildings, new businesses and technology, and an ever-changing skyline. Southwark's population will also continue to change, as more people choose to make our borough their home.

We want to hear from people about how the changes are affecting them, how they feel about the future and whether there's anything they think we can do differently.

The Southwark Conversation is a discussion with local people about the changes taking place across the borough to understand what those changes mean for them.

We think as the future citizens of Southwark it is particularly important that the views of young people are heard as part of this conversation, and would be grateful if you could tell your pupils about the survey, and encourage them to take part. The survey element of the conversation closes on Christmas Eve.

To this end, we would like to remind the parents of children attending your school about the survey, which is online, and closes at the end of the term. Please could you help us to advertise the Southwark Conversation we want people who work as well as those who live in the borough to participate.

Thank you,
